FROM 10 TO 80 ACRES IN COLEGROVE
Will be sold at reasonable rates and on very easy terms.

Colegrove lies in the Cahuenga Valley, just five miles northwest of the Plaza in Los Angeles, and is therefore two miles from the city limits. It is about eleven or twelve miles from the ocean, which is in plain view. It is well elevated, commanding a bird's-eye view of the Pico street and Washington street country. The Los Angeles County Railroad (better known as the "Foothill line") crosses Colegrove, upon which will be located the principal depot of the section. The West End Dummy Railroad is near by. Two large hotels are now under construction, and several others will be built in the neighborhood. The upper portion of the Cahuenga Valley has long been celebrated for the production of early (winter) vegetables, frost being unknown. All varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown without irrigation. The fertility of the soil is remarkable, and the climate unequaled. Ocean and mountain views, and all that. Purest water at from six to twenty feet. Several springs on the 83 acres.
Will be sold at one-half to one-sixth of prices asked for adjoining property

THE READY GUN.

A Silly Shooting Scrape in the Foothill Queen.

The Perennial Kegel Again Gets Into Very Hot Water.

One Shootist Objects to His Wife's Being Protected While He's Drunk; the Other Blazes Away on General Principles.

There was blood on the moon last Monday morning in the usually quiet little town of Monrovia. About eight months ago Charles Dunn and his wife and four children moved to Monrovia and took up their quarters near the residence of E. M. Wardell. Dunn was a laboring man, and was employed by Wardell almost immediately. The Dunns were very poor at that time, and it took all the head of the family could make to keep the wolf from the door and furnish their little house. Dunn seemed to be a kind-hearted husband, and he is undoubtedly a hard worker, for he has not missed a day's work hardly since he went out there. His only fault is a liking for liquor, and last Sunday he indulged rather freely. He did not go home until late in the evening, and after remaining there awhile he got it into his head that he wanted to go out and visit the saloon again. His wife objected, and kept talking to him until about 2 o'clock Monday morning, when she sent two of her children for Mr. Wardell, as she thought he might be able to induce her husband to remain at home. Wardell did all in his power to get Dunn to bed, but all to no effect, for that gentleman had made up his mind to go out and have another drink; so Wardell let him go, and then induced Mrs. Dunn and her children to go to his house. When Dunn got all the liquor he wanted he started for home, and seemed to be greatly surprised not to find his wife at home. It was broad daylight by this time, so he started for Wardell's, and, when he reached the house, he asked for his wife. Wardell met him at the door, and told him that he could not see her until he sobered up. He went off and took several drinks more, when he again visited Wardell's house. He was refused admittance to the house, and started off once more to the saloon. He kept this up until a few minutes past 12 o'clock, when he armed himself and went "gunning" for Wardell. They met on the street, and, when about twenty steps from each other, they drew their pistols and began to pepper away until all of the charges had been fired out of each "gun." None of the bullets took effect, and both men started in opposite directions. Dunn was arrested and taken before the Justice of the Peace. His examination took place and he was held to appear before the Superior Court on a charge of assault to murder. He was seen in the County Jail last night by a TIMES reporter and made the following statement:

"I never had any trouble with Mr. Wardell before. When he came to my house at 2 o'clock on Monday morning he did so because my wife sent for him, as she believed that he could make me stay at home. He abused me in such a way that I walked out of the house, and did not return until long after daylight. When I did not find my wife at home, I thought she had gone home with Wardell, so I went over to the house and knocked at the door. He opened it and when I asked for my wife he knocked me down. I was in no condition to fight, so I left and returned after a little while, and was treated in the same way again. The third time I went up to the door and told him I must see my wife. I had been knocked down twice before when I made that just request, and I was on the watch for him, so I kept out of his way. But he rushed out of the house and chased me some distance. No, he didn't catch me, for I can outrun him. I began to think the matter over and came to the conclusion that I was not being treated right, so I secured a pistol and started to return a fourth time, when I met him and the shooting took place. I don't exactly remember how it occurred, but I think he was the first to draw his gun. We were about fifty feet from each other, and I think we shot as fast as we could point blank at each other, but neither one was hit and I ran away. Shortly after that some one called to me that Wardell was coming for me with a shotgun. I started off for the brickyard as fast as I could run, with Wardell after me. He didn't get close enough to shoot, and when I disappeared among the men, he stopped and did not attempt to come any nearer. He expected me to come out pretty soon, so he concealed himself near the yard and waited for me with both barrels of his shotgun cocked. Had I attempted to pass him he would have killed me sure, but I did not give him a chance. No, I never gave him a chance to quarrel with me before and I don't know why he acted so. He and my wife are not related in any way whatever, and he simply came to the house because she sent for him. I did not attempt to defend myself in the Justice Court for I knew they would hold me, but I am sure I shall get off before a jury. My wife was here today to see me, and her evidence will clear me, and then there are others who know all about the affair."

A False Alarm.

The Oxford Hotel people created quite an excitement at the police station last evening. The proprietor telephoned down that burglars had entered his daughter's room and made off with her gold watch. The whole detective force was sent down, but before they reached the house the young lady discovered her watch where she had placed it herself, and the excitement in police and hotel circles died an ignominious death.

No one killed. The professor declares himself to be the champion violinist, pedestrian and slogger of Southern California.

ANSWER FILED.

Another Move in the Celebrated Mott Divorce Case.

There was another move in the Mott divorce case yesterday, the following answer being filed by Glassell, Smith & Patton, attorneys for the plaintiff:

Stephen H. Mott, plaintiff, vs E. Alice Mott, defendant.

Whereas, the above-named E. A. Mott has, on the 4th day of November, 1887, filed a petition entitled as in the above entitled matter, asking for alimony, etc., now for greater certainty and to prevent any misconception on the point, we hereby notify all parties concerned that after the making of the order of court herein sustaining the defendant's demurrer to the plaintiff's amended complaint, with leave to the plaintiff to file another amended complaint within ten days thereafter that said plaintiff before and at the time of the expiration of said ten days, failed and refused to file any amended complaint, or other pleading in said action and said plaintiff ever since and still fails and refuses to file or make any amended complaint or other complaint in said matter, and has submitted and does submit to the order of said court consequent upon said defendant's demurrer above referred to being sustained, as aforesaid, and the time for filing another amended complaint having expired without any such pleading having been filed, plaintiff therefore declares and submits that the said action has been and is by reason of the premises dismissed, and is not, and has not been since the expiration of said ten days, a pending action, and said defendant is not in court for any purposes in said action.

QUEER DEER HUNTING.

A Miner Finds Live Venison at the Bottom of a Shaft.

"Old Bloss," an ancient miner, who has prospected near the mouth of the San Gabriel Cañon for the past dozen or so of years, met with quite an experience the other day. The old fellow is working in a shaft which he thinks will pan out a big gold mine if he can go deep enough, and from early morn until late at night his little blasts of powder can be heard by the neighbors. The old man's mode of mining is rather crude. He uses nothing but a bucket, a rope that drops into the shaft, which is about fifteen feet deep, a pick and shovel and a few drills. He slips down the rope, and when his bucket is full he shins up the rope and pulls it out. On

Crawford, and that gentleman went out of the room. He presently returned, stating that Buckhardt had made overtures to him to settle the case, and stated his determination not to press the case against Smith and Roberts. The officers, however, had been charged with committing battery, and they did not propose to let the case be dismissed until they had a full and complete retraction of the charge against them from Mr. Buckhardt. This, after some thought, he agreed to give, and not only did this, but also paid all costs in the case and paid the attorney's fees for both Smith and Roberts, amounting altogether to something over $30. This being the situation, all parties went up to the court after dinner and the case was dismissed by Justice Johnson.

From the court the TIMES reporter, thinking all danger and trouble was past, went into the Coast Seamen's Union office, and there he noticed that instead of the ready welcome he had received on his first visit to that place, all the sailors in the room, with but one or two exceptions, looked very black at him and commenced whispering one to another. Presently, without apparently meaning anything, two of the men got up, and, walking out of the room, closed the door after them. The reporter though, as the weather was oppressively warm and the officers he was with were on the other side of the door, it would be better to have the portal open, and at once opened it and lounged against it in full view of the officers who were on the outside.

After a wait of a few minutes, the inmates of the room asked who wrote the article in the Monday edition of THE TIMES, and expressed an opinion rather openly as to the pedigree of the reporter who would write such an article. Then one of the others made a statement to the effect that none of the members of the union had anything to do with the throwing of either rocks or stovepipe or any other missile in the riot on Sunday, and any person who said they had was not an exponent of the truth. For a few minutes the weather looked rather stormy around the reporter's vicinity, but by a judicious explanation to the effect that no one had accused the union of such actions, the crisis was staved off, and the men who were not connected with the union, but who appeared to be the most desirous of seeing another row, left the room and started off toward the Justice's court, where the trouble between Buckhardt and Smith and Roberts was being fixed up.

Here another complication arose, in the fact that Hogan, one of the San Pedro deputy constables, the man who had refused to assist the officers in the arrest of the men wanted for misdemeanor, on their first visit, was to be tried on a charge of assault with intent to commit robbery. This case, however, was in Justice Weeks's court, and had drawn a large crowd of the worst element in the city. From what could be learned of the case, it appears that Hogan a few nights since had found Edward Kays, the mate of the barkentine Maquair, so drunk as to be incapable of taking care of himself. According to the mate's story, Hogan took him aboard a small boat and undertook to row him out to his vessel. While under way Kays claims that Hogan drew his billy and struck him over the head so hard as to render him unconscious, and then went through him. Hogan acknowledged that he struck the man with his billy, but says he had to do so in order to get him to understand that he was anxious to get him aboard to prevent his being robbed by the land sharks ever on the lookout for a drunken sailor.

Mr. Savage, a local legal light, prosecuted the case, and Mr. Crawford was employed by Hogan for the defense. By this time, Mr. Crawford, who knew that Fred Smith held warrants for other men engaged in the attempt to entice seamen from the barkentine Discovery, saw that if Fred tried to take the men while the rest of the loafers about town were around, there would, in all probability, be a fight in earnest. To gain time, so that the men might be arrested and taken to the depot, if they were aroused, he made a motion that THE TIMES reporter be appointed and sworn by the Court as the stenographer in the case. The opposing counsel objected to the arbitrary appointment of a stenographer by the Court, but expressed himself willing to enter into an agreement with his opponent to have the notes taken without asking the Court to make the appointment. This was not what Crawford wanted, so he at once broke out into a Fourth-of-July oration on the subject, reciting the section of the code relating to the appointment of a court stenographer, and then in stating the rights of his client in the matter said:

"If the Court pleases, this case is one in which the personal liberty of my client is threatened. He, an officer of this court, a man under bonds to the county for the faithful performance of his duty, is hereby charged by some drunken scoundrel with having committed a crime of which it is easy to see he is not guilty. I here present to the court my friend, an employé of THE TIMES of Los Angeles. Your Honor well knows that the paper he represents is the superior of any paper published in this part of the country in every respect, and is truthful beyond the question of a doubt. It is a paper invariably on the side of truth, justice and honor, and consequently one of its employés is especially adapted for the purpose of reducing to writing the testimony given in this case against my client. This abominable case is brought by a drunken hoodlum against one of the officers, sworn to do his duty, of this county. THE TIMES is a paper devoted to the best interests of that spleadid liberty which is enjoyed by every American citizen, and in the words of the immortal Patrick Henry, 'Give me liberty, or give me death.'"

This oration fired the ambition of the opposing counsel, and he at once replied at great length in a similar strain, during which Fred Smith, who had completed his still-hunt for the other men, came to the door and unseen gave the reporter a signal that all was ready for the train, and the object of the beautiful language then being slung at the patient court at a terrible rate grabbed his hat and cane, and like the enterprising burglar, "silently stole away." At the depot all matters had been properly arranged, and the officers were altogether ready for any demonstration which might be made at that time, but on account of the loud talking of the counsel at the court-room the street was deserted, and the party got on the train without further difficulty.

What the next move in the embroglio will be no one can tell, but the prospects now are that the Coast Seaman's Union, having seen that such demonstrations as have been made in the past week is hurting their cause, will use their influence to prevent their followers from again acting as they have in the past. The men composing the union are in the main well informed and sensible men, but the fact being that the inhabitants of San Pedro are dependant upon the custom of the seamen for their living, makes some of the hoodlum classes think they can best curry favor with the sailors by annoying and harrassing the officers in every possible manner, and until the officers and members of the union see this point and also that all the trouble in the affair is blamed to them, people will not believe otherwise.

The case of the men arrested will come up in Justice Austin's court tomorrow morning, when it is expected that all the men concerned in the Discovery matter will answer for their share in the business.

Final Judgment.

In the case of the Los Angeles and Glendale Railroad Company vs. Frank Drouillard and others, final judgment was rendered in the Superior Court yesterday for the condemnation of roadway through certain lands of the defendant, in Hunter's Highland View tract, and the railroad company was authorized to take said land for its use.

The Flood of Travel.

About 1200 excursionists arrived in this city during the night over the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé. There was an excursion train of seventeen cars, divided into two sections, and the regular train of sixteen cars, also in two sections, making thirty-three cars in all. This is one of the largest excursions of the season so far. The passenger business of the Atchison is increasing so rapidly that cars cannot be had to handle all their business. The freight movement is also increasing at a heavy rate, and is taxing the resources of the company to their utmost.

RAMONA'S HOME.

A Peculiarly Cheeky Device Is Squelched.

Enterprise sometimes degenerates into gall. An auction-sale dodger for an excursion to be given shortly contains the following monumental example:

"RAMONA'S HOME.

"THE HEROINE OF THE GREAT AMERICAN NOVEL.

"On the return trip the train will stop over at the Camulos Ranch (now owned by Del Valle Bros.) the home of Ramona (the heroine of the Great American Novel) a sufficient length of time for those who desire to visit the home of 'the heroine,' whose touching history has been read by hundreds of thousands, and remembered with pleasure by all. In this interesting spot you will see the cool shaded veranda which opens on the courtyard, here Felipe's Room, and there Ramona's, and there the Señora's. There also the place where old Juan Can used to lounge with his dogs at his feet. Near by the south veranda the Señora's own, from which opened the rooms the good Father Salviederra always occupied; beyond the garden always a mass of verdure, and in which is the Old Chapel. In other directions are the Olive, Almond and Orange Groves, and Orchards of Pear, Peach, Apricot and Pomegranate, and Vineyards. The various places where this and that scene were enacted are at once recognized, making the characters of this beautiful story living realities.

"The household is at present composed of people related to the Señora Moreno, who are always pleased to show visitors the places of interest.

"Lovers of the romantic (and other lovers too) will not fail to visit the brook that runs in the shade of the old gnarled willow trees near by the arbor where Alessandro first saw and loved Ramona.

"This is indeed a trip of pleasure, poetry, romance and profit combined, and you are cordially invited to attend the feast."

Aside from the impudence of the thing—running a crowd of several hundred strangers into the home of a refined family, without so much as saying "by your leave"—the paragraph betrays gross ignorance. As a matter of fact, there never was such a person at Camulos as "Ramona." When Helen Hunt Jackson was gathering the materials for her wonderful story, one of the first things necessary was to find a typical old Spanish home, which could be described as the scene of the story. She was directed to Hon. R. F. Del Valle's beautiful home at Camulos, and went thither. There she found what she sought; and though she was there but a few hours, her description of the place is remarkably true to life. That Camulos is the spot described as Romona's home, there is absolutely no question. But there the connection of Camulos with the story absolutely ceases. The characters in the book never resided at Camulos, nor did their originals. The "Señora Moreno" is simply a piece of strong, graphic fiction, and no more like the gracious Señora Del Valle than night is like day. There is no one on the rancho who in any way figures in the book. Fictitious characters have been grouped in scenes which really exist, that is all. As to the allegation that the "household is at present composed of people related to the Señora Moreno," the stupidity of the falsehood is apparent.

The dwellers in Camulos are intelligent, refined people. Their hospitality is proverbial throughout Southern California; but they are not desirous of being overrun by swarms of strangers steered thither on behalf of a real-estate auction.

Senator Del Valle yesterday called the attention of the excursion promoters to this matter, and they at once apologized and had the offensive circulars—to the number of several thousand—destroyed.

SNOW AND SONG.

The Tuneful Voice of a Frost-Bitten Wisconsin Man.

A subscriber received the following letter from the land of mittens, over-shoes and busting water-pipes:

"——, Wis, Oct. 27, 1887.— . . . Ugh! Here is a snow storm at Green Bay ten inches; cars blocked, and the mercury almost to zero. Everything frozen up; roads hard as rock. It makes your clime attractive. I sing to myself the old Jerusalem hymn, changed over to your sunny land:

"'Thy gardens of thy goodly walks continually are green,
There grow such sweet and pleasant flowers as nowhere else are seen;
You need no walls of precious stones, no gates of diamond square;
There safety dwells and liberty, O, God, if I were there!
Along thy streets on either hand the streams of life do flow,
While on their banks, on either side, the trees of life do grow.
O, happy harbor of God's saints, O, sweet and pleasant soil,
Which yields each month its fruits and flowers to cheerful care and toil.
No dimly cloud o'ershadows thee, nor gloom nor darkness e night,
But every day is loveliest, and all the year is bright.
Los Angeles, the golden, with milk and honey blest,
Beneath thy contemplation sink heart and voice oppres't.
O, sweet and blessed country, the home of gods elect;
O, sweet and blessed country that eager hearts expect.
O, shores of the Pacific, when shall I come to thee?
When shall my longings have an end, thy joys when shall I see?'

"And so on, the famous hymn of St. Bernard of Cluny rolling on in ever increasing fervor of expectation and delight for 200 verses, from which our Jerusalem hymns mostly come, might, by a few verbal turns such as I have given, express my feeling during these cold blasts toward your sunny land.

"Your papers arrive every few days and interest and encourage us."

The Wedding Ring.

[American Magazine for September.]

The ceremony perceeded along smoth and proper till Hannibal andertook ter find the ring to put on my finger. Then there was trouble. He fumbled fust in one pocket, then another, took out a cigar, a little box o' matches, a tooth-pick, a pen-knife, a horse-ches'nut that he alwers carries for rheumatiz, and several other things—took 'em out one to a time, looked at 'em thoughtful and inquirin' and put 'em back agin'. Finally he dove into some place and took out a little wad o' paper, and all our sperits revived. That looked more like, but when he ondid it, out rolled a dozen or more sugar-coated pills on to the floor! He let 'em roll and tried agin. This time he fished out a small card that 'peared ter have some writin' on it. (I found out afterward that he'd writ down on that card where he put the ring, for fear he'd forgit, jest as he had.) When he'd read the card what did de dew but stoop over deliberate and pull off one o' 'em dretful boots and shake the ring out o' the toe on't! Then he put his boot back on, and straightened himself up as carm as if it was customary and common for bridegrooms to carry the ring in the toe o' their boots, and, takin' my hand, slipped the ring on to my finger as graceful as you please.

Go Where You Will.

Go where you will, make any comparisons you wish, but after you have seen Burbank you can never forget the picturesqueness of its scenery, its remarkable growth and great possible future.

Why Not.

There is no reason why Burbank should not have Monrovia prices, considering its advantageous location, superior railroad facilities and being eight miles nearer the coast.

LA PRESA!

The Beautiful Swiss Village on Lake Como

BEING REPRODUCED IN SAN DIEGO.

The most novel thing yet undertaken in the development of this southern country is now being done at LA PRESA, nine miles from San Diego. The plan is to reproduce in that delightful spot the counterpart of the celebrated Swiss village on Lake Como, in Northern Italy. To this end a railroad is being built to the place, and a fine modern hotel is to be erected at once. The situation is most delightful; far enough removed from the sea to escape rough winds, yet near enough to be always cool. With pure water, fine scenery, and the best of soil, LA PRESA is just the place to invest for a quick turn with big profits. LA PRESA is sure to grow rapidly, as it has all the elements to attract a select class of settlers.

Lots are Sold for the Low Price of $100 to $125 Each.

WM. A. SPALDING, Secretary.

"The Times" has a larger circulation than any other newspaper published in Southern California.

GEORGE T. WEEKS, late editor of the Paso de Robles Leader, will soon take editorial charge of the San Bernardino Times.

HIS EXCELLENCY the Governor arrived in town yesterday from San Diego. There was no demonstration in his honor, and business proceeded as usual.

THE jealous Evening Express, in its lame and impotent efforts to criticise this paper, says some very foolish things. The Express should cram its mouth full of silence and subside.

THE Santa Barbara Press is growling about the bad condition of the streets and roads about Santa Barbara. It is missionary work, brother. Keep up the growl until something is effected for their improvement.

CLEVELAND'S Cabinet is to experience a change. Lamar goes on the Supreme bench, Vilas becomes Secretary of the Interior, and D. M. Dickinson of Michigan is to become Postmaster-General.

THE Duke of Bosh, having waited vainly for some other paper to compliment him on his new appointment, gets the puffing done in his own paper, the Trombone. Verily, "he that bloweth not his own horn, the same shall not be blowed."

THE tone of yesterday's Trombone touching the pending editorial slogging match, into which it has indiscreetly thrust its bruised and battered cabeza, reveals a weakness that is simply pitiable. We begin to relent. There is such a thing as cruelty to animals and children.

ALREADY the hotels in the different towns and cities of Southern California are fast filling up from the rapid influx of immigration. And yet the winter tide has but just set in. We need a thousand hammers and bricklayers at work on new hotels for this city. When is work on our mammoth hostelries to begin?

THE San Francisco papers are bragging because the receipts of the Recorder's office there for October were $4469, and the net earnings $1300. In Los Angeles the Recorder's receipts were $7585.85, and the net earnings $3545. And the difference is even more strikingly in favor of Los Angeles than the above figures indicate, for the fees in San Francisco are much higher than here. At the rates in force in San Francisco our receipts would have been $10,596.55, and net earnings $6603.

"IN that triumphal procession Abraham Lincoln shall not move as the rightful President, but Jefferson Davis, the so-called 'traitor,' leader of a so-called 'Lost Cause.'" —[From the speech of ex-Minister Jackson at Macon, Ga.

The industrious circulation by the Ohio Republicans of the Confederate speech from which the above is an extract, and the presence of the Confederate Gen. Gordon in the Buckeye State—imported by the Democrats to assist in the eagerly-desired overthrow of Foraker—did not have the effect of reducing the gallant Ohio Governor's majority to any appreciable extent. "On the contrary, quite the reverse."

GEN. VANDEVER, Congressman-elect from the Sixth California District, will leave for Washington early next week. He is entitled to his seat, and will retain it if the House decides the contest upon its merits, and not from a partisan standpoint. With his ability and experience, his intelligence and his devotion, supplemented by a wide acquaintance among the public men of the country and a close knowledge of legislative methods gained in his two terms of service in the National House, Gen. Vandever will surely prove a valuable servant to the people of this district, who deliberately chose him to represent them at Washington.

SANTA BARBARA is moving earnestly in the matter of raising funds sufficient to establish an immigration agency in Los Angeles. Like other towns, they recognize Los Angeles as the center of growth in Southern California, and they are anxious to send here an attractive exhibit of the county's productions. It is a wise move on the part of the Barbarenos, and will, no doubt, be the means of attracting home seekers to their section. There is no question about the fertility and productiveness of that section of our State, and its climatic excellence is not behind our own. The county is destined to become rich and populous, and we rejoice thereat.

Postal Telegraph.

The reckless rapacity of certain corporations, or the heads of such corporations, among whom Jay Gould may be held up as the most perfect pattern of concentrated selfishness, is rapidly maturing the public mind for things that a few years ago were thought, not only to be afar off, but wholly utopian.

Among these now comes first and most pressing the idea of Government, or postal, telegraph to supersede the present system. Nothing proves more decidedly the change in public sentiment on the subject of postal telegraphy than the altered tone and expression of some of our most conservative newspapers.

A few years ago the proprietors of the San Francisco Call refused to sign a petition addressed to Congress asking for the passage of Sumner's Postal Telegraph Bill. Now, however, the Call is in favor of the very thing which its proprietors a few years ago refused to indorse. The following from the Call is mild, but logical and conclusive:

> The establishment of a system of postal telegraphy in connection with the mail service is only a question of time. The next Congress may provide for such a system, or it may put off the work for its successor. The transmission of messages by telegraph and by mail are branches of the same service. The telegraph branch has been very much more expensive than it should have been. In transmitting mails the Government aims at a self-sustaining service. When the Postal Department begins to make money the postage is reduced. Government acts upon the assumption that there should be no unnecessary tax on correspondence. An interchange of letters, newspapers and magazines between people in the several States is desirable. The Government takes complete control of this department of business to protect the people from extortion, and to secure them an efficient service. The consolidation of all private lines of telegraph service into one which is practically under the control of one man furnishes the best argument needed to convince Congress that the Government is the only safe repository for such power as lies in this service. Nothing need be urged against the character of the man who controls this line. The fact that one man controls the whole telegraph service of the country is sufficient. The plan to convert the private service into a public one should be perfected with as much regard as possible to the interests of private proprietors. The Government does not propose to impose a price upon the intelligent enterprise which has brought our telegraph service to its present degree of perfection. Neither should it take private property at the price private owners may set upon it. A way will be devised which is just to all parties.

The telegraphic wolves have overreached themselves. They have struck too deep, and must inevitably be hoist by their own petard. It is to be hoped that Congress will take this matter firmly in hand. Let the telegraphic service be placed where it rightfully belongs—in the keeping of the Government, as part and parcel of the postal system.

For What Southern California Has Waited.

The world has always been somewhat slow in making its great discoveries. For many centuries Rome considered herself mistress of the world. Alexander, with an ambition which led him to weep because there were no more worlds to conquer, was all unmindful of the undiscovered continent beyond the seas, which the ruler of human destinies was holding in wait for the nations yet unborn. Along the shores of our Atlantic borders, the billowy surf of that great ocean thundered in the ears of generation after generation of our forefathers, while the semi-tropic regions of the Pacific were still practically unknown. The tide of empire did not at once set in to the westward. Civilization first set to work to plant her roots strong and deep in the eastern soil of this young continent. It required battle and bloodshed to nourish liberty in its soil. The first occupants of the older States had no time for further conquest. The building of free commonwealths engaged all of their energies. To raise bulwarks that should protect human freedom, and make the citizen secure in his efforts for "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," required intelligence and wisdom, determination and concentrated effort, such as had never before been expended by any people. It was not the work of a day. It was not the work of a single generation. Like all things destined to endure, it required centuries of effort to accomplish the work of preparation. Men had to learn most fully how "to labor and to wait" before the fulfillment of their hopes came.

A century and a decade have passed since the declaration of American independence, and the strides that this Nation has made in the way of enlightenment, in the advancement of individual freedom, in education, science and religious liberty are unparalleled in the history of the world. The Old World, with its slower methods of action, is astonished at the progress of this young and vigorous giant of the west. The rapid growth of American power, and of all that pertains to greatness in our midst, is viewed by it with undisguised wonder. The grandeur of a nation of individual sovereigns is greater beyond compare than that of those acknowledging the "divine right of kings."

Having thus established our institutions, and built up all along our Atlantic borders, and from the Northern lakes to the Southern gulf, prosperous industries, and sown hamlets and towns and populous cities over this wide extent of territory, the people stopped at length to climb the heights of the Rocky Mountains, and from that midway summit of the continent look down upon the lands lying beyond it to the westward.

The greatness and the desirability of this sunset territory they did not at once comprehend; it has but just dawned upon their understanding. They are but just beginning to comprehend what California has to offer to the world. To those reading between the lines of a Providence ruling the destinies of nations, there is a meaning in all this; they discover a wise purpose in the hand that has for so many ages kept this land cradled by the seas an almost unoccupied and tenantless empire.

But little was known of California previous to the excitement of the gold discovery. But little interest was felt in it by the majority of eastern dwellers until within the past twenty years. People, until then, looked upon this section of the State as a land bordered by great deserts, and almost unfit for civilized occupancy and comfort—the land of vast sheep-walks, fit home for the cowboy, the sheep-herder and the cattle-king. Prosperous and enterprising cities had no part in its history, and that they ever would have was hardly deemed probable. But Yankee enterprise found its way here. Intelligent labor and capital set about the work of development. Charmed with the climate and the result of their experiments; marveling at the richness of the supposed barren soil; astonished at the variety of productions, finding it to be a land beyond compare for healthfulness, for physical comfort, for the production of wealth, offering inducements beyond any other for enterprising labor, these pioneers have told their story in a hundred ways, to thousands of listening ears the world over, until a tide of immigration has set in that bids fair, in a few years, to make Southern California one of the richest, most progressive and populous centers of the United States. The finger of destiny indicates that in this section, so desirable for its climatic excellence, where there exist the fewest hindrances to progress; where everything is alike favorable to the greatest physical labor and mental effort, we shall yet see the culmination of the best that is embodied in American civilization. It is for this that the so-long solitary land has waited, and it is for this that we must now make ready.

We must build with a wise hand. We must not neglect public improvements. The interests of education must be fostered. All social reforms, tending to the well-being of society, should receive our heartiest support. All efforts for the upbuilding of the fine arts should be encouraged. Hospitals, homes, parks, public libraries, etc., should be multiplied. Nature has dealt generously with us, let us be alike generous to ourselves, and we may yet have here a country over the pages of whose history the student will bend as delightedly as over the fairest pictures of Grecian and Italian loveliness. It is the land for the poet and the scholar; the statesman and the historian. The land for homes; the land for comfort and the land for enduring patriotism. We may well take pride in it and labor for its great upbuilding.

Los Angeles Stands Upon Her Merits.

The way in which people are pouring into Los Angeles does not indicate to any alarming extent the cessation of the tide of travel hitherward in consequence of the false reports about the country that have been so industriously circulated in the East. Southern California asks only justice and fair treatment at the hands of the press and people of the country at large. She is not so weak that she is compelled to either beg or buy immunity from criticism, but is strong enough to take and give blows if need be. She objects to the circulation, in the East or elsewhere, of false and slanderous statements designed to prejudice intending settlers, but has merit enough and patience enough to live down the slanders, and is serene in her confidence that she will win—that her future is assured.

Money paid for the purpose of either buying cheap and venal praise or averting vicious slander upon Los Angeles from adventurers "on the make," would be money thrown away. Such a practice once begun would have no ending.

We Accept.

THE Trombone says:

"We discuss the editor of THE TIMES, as far as we are compelled to allude to him at all, only as he appears before the public here. Let the public judge and decide."

Good enough! We accept the challenge and will shortly proceed to lay before the public of Los Angeles the fourteenth count, despite the unmistakable aversion of the editor of the Trombone to coming into the ever-sitting Court of Public Opinion on the Chicago indictment. Or perhaps the imbecile-in-chief would like to shift the issue?

A Heavy Telegraphic Budget.

Yesterday's TIMES contained eight columns—more than a full page—of telegraphic news, all interesting and important. The Associated Press service cannot be approached by the opposition news agencies, either singly or combined.

CAPT. BLACK, the leading attorney for the Anarchists, was a candidate before the people for the Superior Judgeship during the recent election in Chicago, and pitted against him was the man who tried the Anarchists, Judge Joseph E. Gary. Black was completely snowed under, the vote being: Black, 5118; Gary, 8809.

This is an unmistakable showing of the bent of public sentiment in Chicago.

THE TIMES is in a critical and trying condition with reference to the political status. —[Trombone.

We are in no such condition with reference to the status of the Trombone. It is the champion of Borax. Borax is the champion Republican traitor, the builder of the Native American Bilk Brigade, which now claims Governor Waterman as its Brigadier, with Patrick Denis Wigginton as Lieutenant-Colonel and H. H. Boyce as Aid-de-Camp.

THE TIMES is the only paper in the State claiming any connection with the Republican party that does not support Gov. Waterman. In this there is the small merit of consistency, for THE TIMES neither favored his nomination nor his subsequent election. —[Trombone.

THE TIMES did aid in his election. The Republican party aided in his election. But according to "The American," Boruck's part organ, the Republican party and THE TIMES only aided —nothing more. It was the American party, according to the claim of the Boruck-Pixley-Wigginton gang, that did the work—that elected Waterman. The officers of the Republican State Central Committee did not know that they were spending the energy and means of their party to secure the election of a man who was in secret alliance with the special enemy of the Republican party—a man whose election was only secured by and through the defeat of the party that nominated him.

THE editor of that sheet [THE TIMES] has the presumption to discuss the question of Gov. Waterman's Republicanism. —[Trombone.

We make no such pretension. There is no room for it. We are content to leave the discussion to the Trombone and "The American" of San Francisco —the Pixley-Boruck-Pig-Wigginton-Boyce organ. We will simply restate the proposition as originally stated by the organ:

"Today Robert Waterman is Governor of the Commonwealth of California, through and by the votes of the American party. He gave assurance prior to his election that he was in sympathy with the American movement, and his action since has proven that the confidence reposed in him by Americans was not misplaced."

THE Duke of Bosh, aid-de-calm, etc., etc., on the staff of the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy of California, causes himself to be given "a first rate notice" in the editorial columns of his private organ, the Los Angeles Tribune, upon the occasion of his appointment on the staff aforesaid. In making the announcement of this great event the private organ indulges in the following specimen of hogwash:

"One of the Governor's appointments in the list of his aids, was read with great satisfaction in this city, and will give, we are sure, much satisfaction throughout the State, but especially so in Southern California. COL. H. H. BOYCE [in small caps, mind you,] is widely known as an able and shrewd politician, with accomplishments and a popularity that fairly entitle him to the recognition of the Governor of California."

The Duke of Bosh is consumed with ambition to be considered a "smart polititian," to employ his own peculiar spelling of that word. Let's see—what does Webster say about it?

"Politician (n)—One who dabbles in public affairs; or, a mere politician. A man of artifice or deep contrivance."

Referring to Worcester we find:

"Politician (adjective)—Politic, cunning, artful."

"Shrewd" is defined by Webster:

"Shrewd (adjective)—Inclining to shrew; disposing to curse or scold; vexatious, annoying, vicious, wicked."

In other words, full of pure cussedness. Sabe?

Nearly a Thousand Chinese Leave for Their Native Land—Arizona Masonic Grand Lodge Election—Body Washed Ashore at Santa Cruz.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SANTA CRUZ, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] A card has been published in a daily paper by the directors of the Santa Cruz Savings and Loan Association, setting forth that, while a shortage of about $19,000 has been discovered in the accounts of Robert Effy, ex-teller of the bank and Mayor of Santa Cruz, the bank is solvent and takes this method of averting a run on its resources, which might be caused by the rumors circulated. Mayor Effy, it is said, though holding several high offices, received no salary save the $100 per month from his position as teller in the bank, and his efforts to maintain his social standing plunged him heavily into debts which he could only satisfy by appropriating the funds of the bank. The shortage has been made good by Effy, his father and father-in-law. It is claimed by his friends that had he not appeared as a candidate for president of the bank the card would never have been published.

THE FRUIT-GROWERS.

Committees Appointed and a Number of Interesting Papers Read.

SANTA ROSA, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] The State Fruit-Growers' Convention reconvened this morning. The committee on programme reported the order of business for the week. G. W. Prof. Wickson of Berkely followed on the same subject. The convention then discussed remedies in general. A. Scott Chapman of San Gabriel read a brief paper on the use of hydrocyanic acid gas against scale insects. A letter was received from R. B. Glower of Woodland, declining Gov. Waterman's appointment to serve on the State Board of Horticulture. A resolution was then passed asking the Governor to appoint Sol Runyon of Sacramento to fill the vacancy.

The afternoon session was occupied by a discussion of fruit pests and the reading of papers on the fertilization of orange lands in Southern California by Mr. A. Scott Chapman. A committee on legislation was also appointed. President Cooper was made a member of the committee and he selected as his associates Judge Stabler, L. W. Buck of Vacaville, Prof. Dwinelle and A. E. Whittaker of Santa Rosa. In the evening there was a second exhibit of fruits and nuts and a display of flowers.

THE M'DONALD CASE.

Senator Stanford Tells What He Knows About It.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] In relation to the statement that Mrs. Clara Belle McDonald has sold to Senator Stanford certain certificates of Central Pacific Railroad stock belonging to Dr. R. H. McDonald, Senator Stanford testified today before a notary public that as nearly as he could remember Mrs. McDonald called several times at his office and offered to sell him the stock, which, she said, was a gift to her from Dr. McDonald. The Senator offered her $10,000, equal to the original investment, and 10 per cent. interest. He had no recollection of seeing Dr. McDonald's name on the stock, yet advised Mrs. McDonald that the stock must be indorsed. About three weeks later she called again and produced five certificates of five shares each, indorsed by R. H. McDonald, for which Senator Stanford gave her a check on the Bank of California for $10,000. This is the stock Mrs. McDonald has been charged with having forged her father-in-law's name as indorser.

Dimmig, who has been under arrest during the investigation, was examined, and explained his recent purchase of the drugs for Dr. Fells. He stated that on the advice of counsel he would refuse to answer all other questions, and the inquest adjourned, the Coroner stating he would give notice when the investigation would be resumed.

Prohibition Defeated in Oregon.

PORTLAND (Or.), Nov. 9.—The latest returns from all sections of the State show that prohibition is defeated by a majority of probably not less than 7800. These estimates are based on official returns from three counties. Full returns from the principal counties in Northern and Southern Oregon, and also in complete returns from all precincts, which can be reached by wire. Five counties to hear from may change the total result from 400 to 800. Both the other proposed amendments to the constitution are badly beaten. It is estimated that the amendment to increase salaries of State officials has been "snowed under" by an overwhelming majority, probably not less than 25,000 votes. The amendment to change the time of holding the general election is defeated by several thousand.

Foraker's Plurality Over Powell Over Twenty Thousand.

Prohibition Badly Defeated in the Web-foot State.

Increased Republican Vote in Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and Iowa—Small Democratic Majorities in Maryland—Press Comments.

By Telegraph to The Times.

ALBANY (N. Y.), Nov. 10, 1:30 a.m.—[By the Associated Press.] Approximated complete returns to the Argus, from all counties in the State, give Cook (Dem.), for Secretary of State, 1056 plurality over Grant (Rep.), a net Democratic loss of 488, compared with Hill's plurality in 1885.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 9.—The Republicans elect two Senators and the Democrats one. Chapin (Dem.) is elected Mayor. The Republicans elected a Sheriff and gain one Assemblyman.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mayor Hewitt said today the result of yesterday's election was a forerunner of the certain renomination and reelection of President Cleveland. He accounts for the shrinkage in the labor vote by what he calls a change of sentiment among Henry George's former followers.

The Irish World claims the Henry George loss was entirely due to the defection of the Catholics on account of George's attitude toward the Pope in the McGlynn case.

PRESS COMMENT.

How Leading New York Papers View the Result.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] The Times, commenting on the State election, says: "The vote yesterday serves notice on the Republican party that Platt and Blaine, who for the time being Platt represented, must be given up or all hope of success in the Presidential campaign next year must be abandoned. That such notice has been served is a great gain for honest government not only in this State but in the nation."

The Tribune says: "In the light of yesterday's voting it must be said that the country reaffirms its verdict against President Cleveland and his party. We see no reason for Republican dismay in this result. The Democrats have won by the most tremendous exertions."

Under the head of "three things settled" the world says: "The result of the election in this State settles three points as thoroughly as any political event can be settled in advance—President Cleveland will be renominated by his party; Blaine will not be renominated by the Republicans; George will not control the election next year. New York is the pivotal State. Cleveland's friends have had a complete triumph. It seems that the German Republican vote very largely came over to the Democratic side, and with the increase in the Prohibition vote, much more than made up the disaffection caused by the labor movement."

The Sun says: "Due credit for the cohesion and confidence that brought about the glorious result yesterday should be given to Grover Cleveland, whose manly and sensible letter was as timely as it was well-advised."

The Herald says the elections are a complete triumph for the administration. The victory is along the whole line. National, State and municipal administrations were alike on trial, and the verdict as regards President Cleveland, Gov. Hill and Mayor Hewitt is: "Well done, good and faithful servant."

IOWA.

A Light Vote, but Enough for the Republican Ticket.

Returns from Legislative districts at present indicate that the Republicans will have thirty-two of the fifty members of the Senate, and sixty-three of the hundred members of the House. From present returns the total poll of the State this year will be 11,000 or 12,000 less than last year.

MARYLAND.

Smallest Democratic Majority Received for Twenty Years.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Reliable estimates from throughout the State show that the majority of Jackson (Dem.) for Governor will be about 9000, the smallest received by any Governor in twenty years. Senator Gorman's county is Democratic by a reduced majority. The call for a constitutional convention was defeated by 5000.

Massachusetts.

BOSTON, Nov. 9.—The gubernatorial returns from the entire State except one town which cast nine votes last year, gives Ames 135,908; Lovering, 118,359; Earl, 1073; Marks, 348; Ames' plurality, 17,609. The House stands 165 Republicans, 72 Democrats, 2 Independents, and one district tied. This shows a Republican gain of eight and a Democratic loss of eleven from last year. The Senate is 30 Republicans and 10 Democrats, a gain of five for the Republicans.

New Jersey.

TRENTON (N. J.), Nov. 8.—Corrected returns show that the next Legislature will stand: Senate, Republicans 10, Democrats 9; House, Republicans 37, Democrats 23.

TRENTON (N. J.), Nov. 9.—Returns confirm the report of this afternoon of the complexion of the next Legislature. The Republicans, with 13 members in the Senate and 37 in the House, will have a majority of 17 on joint ballot.

THE ANARCHISTS.

Large Delegations Wrestling with Gov. Oglesby.

Lingg's Friends Trying to Prove Him to Be Insane.

A Box of Explosives Sent to a Prominent Chicagoan.

Bombs Found in a Number of Places—A Writ of Habeas Corpus Applied For—Letter from Judge Gary—Some Hope for Clemency.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.), Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] A large crowd stood on the platform at the depot this morning, waiting to see the Chicago delegation which has come to intercede with Gov. Oglesby in behalf of the condemned Anarchists. On the arrival of the train the delegation at once proceeded to the headquarters of the labor delegation. The Chicago Amnesty Association have petitions of their own and will present them to the Governor at an interview this afternoon. Capt. Black has sole charge of the main petitions, and of these there are so many that they required a separate trunk to convey them here. J. R. Buchanan, who made an estimate of the number of names sent in from various points, says there are eleven miles of names begging for clemency. The delegation of labor people from New York claim they have a petition with 100,000 names attached. The feeling among the labor people who have come here is that there can be no argument before the Governor on the legal question of the case. The two features which are now to be presented are the question of mercy and of public policy.

Gov. Oglesby received the delegation about 10 o'clock. There were about 100 friends of the condemned men present in the room when Capt. Black began reading the general petition, which had been signed by the men themselves. Capt. Black took twenty minutes to read the petition, which recited the history of the alleged offense, affirmed that none of them either threw the fatal bomb or advised its throwing; that, they had no knowledge of the fact that it was to be thrown; that, they had always counseled and encouraged peace. Capt. Black was followed by Gen. Trumbull, Mrs. Clara Richmond, Hon. E. N. Haines of Waukegon, and Senator Streeter, all of whom made appeals for mercy, after which an adjournment was taken until this afternoon.

At the afternoon session Messrs. Slater and Lloyd are to introduce the supplemental plea of Schwab and Judge Garey's letter to the Governor recommending clemency.

Following are the letters presented to Gov. Oglesby this afternoon:

SUPERIOR COURT OF COOK COUNTY.

I have been presented today with what is called a supplement to the petition of Michael Schwab. As I have said on the application of Fielden, it is only necessary as to the case itself to refer to the decision of the Supreme Court. With regard to the special case of Michael Schwab, I concur in what Grinnell has attached to the copy of the petition of Samuel Fielden.

Respectfully, JOSEPH E. GARY.

To His Excellency Richard J. Oglesby, Governor of Illinois:

As supplement to the petition heretofore signed by me, I desire to say that I realize that many utterances of mine in connection with the labor agitation of the past, the expressions made under intense excitement and often without any deliberation, were injudicious. This I regret, believing they must have had a tendency to incite to unnecessary violence. I protest again that I had no thought or purpose of violence in connection with the Haymarket meeting, which I did not even attend, and that I have always deplored the results of that meeting. (Signed) MICHAEL SCHWAB.

The friends of the Anarchists held a meeting at the Leland Hotel at noon, and selected persons to address the Governor during the afternoon. They met the Governor at his office at 2:15. Messrs. Bailey and Campbell of the Chicago Trades Assembly spoke, followed by William Orville and L. S. Oliver of Chicago. Mr. Spellburg of Detroit, Mich., Representative O. C. Dixon of Chicago, Mr. Gomper of the Central Labor Union of New York, J. E. Quinn, Master Workman, and Frank Farrell of Chicago. The latter presented a petition from the Molder's Union of Chicago, to which two of the deceased policemen at one time belonged, and asked for clemency. He closed the address by a short speech.

The Governor granted a private interview to the friends and relatives of the Anarchists in his office. The Governor has given no expression as to his intentions, and it is not likely that any decision will be given.

NEARING THE END.

The Governor Will Not Delay Action Much Longer.

SPRINGFIELD (Ill.), Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Messrs. William Salter, H. D. Lloyd and S. P. McConley of Chicago were accorded a lengthy hearing by Gov. Oglesby, extending from 5 until 6:15 p.m. Mr. Salter was the bearer of numerous petitions. The Governor listened to these gentlemen with the closest attention, and talked with them freely about the situation. An Associated Press reporter interviewed Mr. Salter this evening. He said he was not at liberty to tell all the Governor said, but he would say that His Excellency was laboring with the question and spoke frankly of the difficulty of the situation. Salter told the Governor if he had waited in Chicago till this evening he could have brought many more names down. The Governor replied, "I am glad you did not wait, for I must in justice to these men, decide the question before me very soon. It will not do to delay much longer."

GETTING INTERESTING.

Boxes of Gun Cotton Sent to Various Chicago Citizens.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Dr. Hathaway, living at No. 1010 West Monroe street, found on his front porch this morning, a round box inclosed in brown wrapping paper, on which was written: "Don't let any one see you open this. Two lives are worth more than one. Beware! The city called upon you for help. Be careful upon which end you open this." The box was taken to the Desplaines-street station and found to contain a quantity of saturated gun cotton. A little later in the day a bomb was found on the back porch of Campbell's home at No. 11 Clarkson court. It contained enough dynamite to have blown the house up.

A NEW DODGE.

A Petition Presented Declaring Lingg to be Insane.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Nina Van Zandt was refused admission to the jail this morning, orders having been given not to admit her because of the young woman's habit of creating scenes in the cage. Mrs. Engel was the only visitor admitted. The Anarchists were not let out in the exercise court this morning. A petition was filed at noon in court by Dr. Kerlan declaring Lingg to be insane and a demented man. Judge Prendergast refused to hear the case until the State's Attorney had been notified of the application.

Writ of Habeas Corpus Applied For.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Late this afternoon Attorney Solomon obtained the signatures of Spies, Fielden and Schwab to a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. The writ is asked on the ground that the judgment of the State Supreme Court was illegal, and also that the defendants should have been in court when the decision was rendered. The petition will be laid before one of the judges of the Criminal Court tomorrow.

When court met at 9 o'clock County Attorney Grinnell was present, but Judge Prendergast refused to hear the petition until after the Criminal Court had passed it.

EVERYTHING READY.

The Gallows All Prepared to Be Put Together.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] The Anarchists were not permitted out of their cells today. Visitors were restricted, and in a remote part of the jail a few trusted deputies were perfecting the final preliminaries needful to the erection of the gallows. As yet this instrument of death has not been removed from the store-room, but everything is in readiness to go forward with the execution except the mere joining together of the framework of the gallows, but that can be done in a very little while. For the first time since the Supreme Court passed on the case, Nina Van Zandt was today denied admission. She toiled up the iron steps, opened the storm doors and took shelter in the closed entry. A moment later her white face was appealing and in humble tone she was asking to be allowed in. The doorkeeper shook his head, saying orders had been given to keep her out. Jailer Foltz was back somewhere in the cage. She sent for him. He came out, and in a kindly but positive tone informed her he was obliged to obstruct her entrance. She remained where she was, holding on to the iron bars as if not comprehending what was said to her. The jailer said, "Spies is locked up and cannot be let out of his cell, and you could not see him if you did come up." Slowly the young woman turned away. She groped her way down the dark stairs in the rain, and with painful steps she went out through the jail yard and turned down the alley. But the jail door was opened while Miss Van Zandt was on the threshold—opened for aged Mrs. Engel, who was accorded a brief interview with her husband. None other of the wives or relatives of the Anarchists called to see them this morning. They remained unvisited with the single exception of Fielden, who had a caller in the person of Rev. D. J. Bolton. Spies, Parsons and Lingg remained away out of sight, back in their cells. There was no noise or movement of any kind to be noticed. The rain falling on the sheet-iron roof was the only thing that broke the stillness, except now and then the heavy tread of the officials going hither and thither, attending the preparations for Friday's work.

All interest just now belonging to the fate of the doomed men has been transferred to Springfield. Most of their friends and sympathizers, and their counsel as well, are out of town, interceding with the Governor. "What will the Governor do?" was the query very often heard about the jail this morning. It was the general belief that nothing final would be heard from Springfield until tomorrow. The Anarchists made no inquiry, nor did they exchange any words with each other at all during the forenoon. Whatever their hopes, their fears, their wishes or thoughts, they kept to themselves. A few gat jets burned in the corridor, but they only served to make the shadows deeper, and there, in their narrow cells, were men, the length of whose lives can now be counted in hours. Only their absence of action of any kind would indicate they were busy with reflection all forenoon.

A Forged Dispatch.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—Late this afternoon Parsons received the following telegram in jail:

"Sign immediately the petition I have prepared for you and get Engle and Fischer to sign it. Everything may depend on this—your lives and others. For God's sake sign it and wire me at once.

"(Signed) W. P. BLACK."

Parsons declares the dispatch is a forgery.

Hope for All.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—A Springfield special says it is thought certain by the friends of the Anarchists here that at least three and possibly all of the condemned men will be the recipients of executive clemency. It is said by persons who are familiar with the probable details of the Governor's action that the final decision will not be given till Thursday evening.

Spies to Be Sacrificed.

SPRINGFIELD, Nov. 9.—It was said this afternoon that Spies' brother would lay a letter before the Governor from Spies this evening. It is claimed that Grinnell said in his speech that if Spies should be hung the law would be satisfied. In his letter Spies asked that the sentence of his comrades be commuted, and that he (Spies) be hung.

Friday to Be a Holiday.

CHICAGO, Nov. 9.—The bread dealers on the North Side have requested their customers to buy enough bread to last them until Saturday, as the German bakers refuse to work on the day of the execution of the Anarchists, the Central Labor Union having declared it a holiday.

GENERAL NEWS.

A Crooked St. Louis Bank Official Arrested.

The Texas and Pacific Railroad Sold for Ten Millions.

Report of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Congressman Wise and a Virginia Editor Indulge in a Fight—New Orleans, Washington and Oakland Races—Miscellaneous News Notes.

By Telegraph to The Times.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Bank Examiner Foreman has made some startling discoveries today, which caused him to have Cashier C. C. Crecilous of the Fifth National Bank arrested on the charge of false entry. It is reported that on the books the figures of more than fifty entries have been changed. It is further charged that on two occasions his reports to the bank directors were false. It appears that Crecilious was interested in five concerns which he was carrying in sums ranging from $50,000 to $150,000, each without security. President Overstoltz is on his death bed, and therefore was not arrested.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 9.—Developments in the Fifth National Bank suspension show fraud and forgery, and the cashier, C. C. Crececins, is now under arrest, charged with false entry and forgery. President Overstoltz would be arrested if he were not on a sick bed.

INTERNAL REVENUE.

Annual Report of Commissioner Joseph S. Miller.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—[By the Associated Press.] Joseph S. Miller, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, submitted his annual report to the Secretary of the Treasury today. The total receipts from all sources of internal revenue for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1887, were $118,820,523, as compared with $116,902,869 for the year 1886. It is estimated that $120,000,000 will be collected from various sources of internal revenue during the current fiscal year, provided no changes are made in the ratio of taxation now imposed by the internal revenue law. The total cost of collection for the past fiscal year, including salaries of officers, etc., was $4,065,149, being about 1¾ per cent. of the amount collected. The cost during the previous fiscal year was about ¾ per cent. of the collections. The estimated expenses for the next fiscal year amount to $4,125,280. An additional head of a division and two messengers are asked for to execute the provisions of the oleomargarine law. The general condition of the service is reported to be good. The reduction of a number of internal revenue districts by the executive order of May last very considerably lessened the cost of collecting internal revenue taxes, and has not in any manner been detrimental to the interest of taxpayers, so far as he has been informed. Commissioner Miller suggests that the question whether the United States has now any authority for the collection of the direct tax remaining unpaid be taken into consideration. If it is held that the tax can be collected, proper steps, he says, should be taken to collect, unless there is some probability of legislative action authorizing a further suspension. In grain distilleries there has been a decrease in the number of large ones. The Commissioner renews his recommendation of last year in regard to the taxation of fractional parts of a gallon of destilled spirits. The great falling off in the assessment of overdue taxes on distilled spirits is due to the fact that there were only 10,701,425 gallons of spirits in distillery warehouses at the beginning of the year 1887, on which the tax would become due under the terms of the warehousing bonds, as there were 12,788,297 gallons of such spirits in bond at the beginning of the present fiscal year. Some increase in assessments of this character may be expected during the year.

SOUTH PASADENA.

A Movement Toward Incorporation—The Pros and Cons.

A week ago the citizens of South Pasadena held a meeting to rejoice with their neighbors of Pasadena in the decision of the courts, that their ordinance suppressing saloons had been sustained by the highest tribunal. A resolution was adopted, appointing a committee to canvass the town and see if there were voters enough to organize a municipal government for South Pasadena, so as to suppress the two saloons now existing in their midst.

Last night that committee reported that there are over 100 voters in the election precinct, just enough, as provided by the State constitution, to form a city government of the sixth class, with power to prohibit the existence of saloons. Thereupon a motion was made by T. J. Vater, "that it is the sense of this meeting that we incorporate as an independent city." The mover offered some forcible reasons in favor of it. He was followed by O. R. Dougherty, one of the pioneer citizens, who had opposed municipal organization at the time Pasadena became a city, and was largely instrumental in keeping South Pasadena out of that organization. Now, however, as a measure of self-protection against the ravages of saloons and their supporters, he preferred the lesser evil of a city corporation.

H. N. Reist, another pioneer, preferred annexation with Pasadena, as a quicker and cheaper means of gaining the desired object. Mr. Wilson of Lincoln Park also favored annexation; likewise Prof. Hammond, a new comer, and Mr. Elias Longley, ditto. Mr. Jacobs, of the firm of Smith & Jacobs, who are just completing the Marengo Hotel, the third large establishment of this kind in South Pasadena, was not favorable to city organization, but if the majority favored annexation or an independent city government, he would not be a kicker. Mr. Edwards thought something must be done, or the saloon element would flow in upon the town and do it great harm.

On account of the diversity of opinion it was thought best not to force a vote on either side of the two propositions, so the resolution was amended to a declaration in favor of incorporating, leaving it to future action whether it should be by annexation or by an independent organization.

29,000 Acres 29,000

—OF—

THE BEST CITRUS LAND IN THE STATE!

Offered for sale in twenty-acre blocks, and can be bought in five, ten, fifteen or twenty-acre subdivisions.

Lytle Creek Water Piped on Each Lot.

Avenues 150 Feet in Width Traverse the Tract.

Water Furnished from a Covered Cement Ditch.

This land lies on the elevated plain directly west of San Bernardino city. The plain is a vast elevated table-land, with just enough of gentle undulation to break the monotony of the landscape.

Owing to the elevation, frost is practically unknown. Flowers in myriads bloom during the winter, the tenderest tomato sprigs are unscathed by frost, and the orange blossoms bloom in beauty throughout the winter. The view is one of the noblest and most picturesque in Nature. Each twenty-acre lot has a fine road at each end.

There are 29,000 acres in this tract, but 10,000 acres only are as yet surveyed. The town, RIALTO, is located near the center of this 10,000-acre tract and on the California Central.

The California Central and the Southern Pacific both traverse this great tract, and in all probability the Southern Pacific's parallel route will soon add a third railroad to this princely citrus tract. The western line of the tract is about two miles distant from the San Bernardino Courthouse.

The plain grows as fine oranges as the world has ever seen and the finest quality of citrus fruit generally, as buyers can see for themselves. There is no better raisin grape land in California. In fact all sub-tropical productions flourish to perfection.

An Opportunity Seldom Offered.

The Santa Fe Railroad Company are largely interested in the new town of Santa Fe Springs, at Fulton Wells. Consequently, all the projected improvements will be rapidly pushed until completed. This is the only resort within seventy miles of Los Angeles where first-class medicinal springs are found. It will, therefore, always be filled with health-seekers. The enterprising firm of Byram & Poindexter have secured 200 acres immediately adjoining the best side of this town of Santa Fe Springs, and will sell no town lots at all. They offer it only in blocks of from four to ten acres, at low acre prices, on easy terms. This gives buyers an opportunity to make handsome villa homes or small farms, just beside a railroad depot, handsome new hotel and other extensive improvements. Any purchaser of his property can double his money by subdividing into lots. Call on us for maps and further particulars. Byram & Poindexter, 27 west First street, Los Angeles.

TWO FRIENDS MEET.

"Hello! old fellow. What have you been doing to yourself? You look like a subject for the undertaker," exclaimed the man on the right.

"I have been taking mercury and potash mixtures until they have nearly ruined me," squeaked the old man on crutches.

"And I," said the other, "have been taking the genuine Swift's Specific, which has built me up from the first dose."

SWIFT'S SPECIFIC.

Nature's own remedy, made from roots gathered from the forests of Georgia. The method by which it is made was obtained by a half-breed from the Creek Indians, who inhabited a certain portion of Georgia, which was communicated to one of the early settlers, and thus the formula has been handed down to the present day. The demand has been increasing until a $150,000 laboratory is now necessary to supply the trade. A foreign demand has been created, and enlarged facilities will be necessary to meet it. This great

A FIERCE FIRE.

UPPER MAIN STREET BADLY DISFIGURED.

Heywood's Huge Furniture Establishment and Several Other Buildings Totally Wiped Out—Aggregate Loss, $65,000 to $70,000.

There was another destructive fire yesterday morning, the sufferers being Heywood Bro's., W. T. Caldwell, C. B. Woodhead and Lenz & Ahrens, whose places of business, on Upper Main street, opposite the junction of Alameda, were reduced to ashes and everything destroyed. The fire started about 11:30 o'clock, when an alarm was turned in from box No. 23, at the Southern Pacific Depot, and the engines were soon on the way to the scene of the conflagration. A TIMES reporter was soon on the ground, where a large crowd had already collected. Owing to the inflammable nature of the building and contents, the fire made rapid headway, and it was soon evident that all the buildings would have to go. There was also some difficulty about getting water, and it was fifteen or twenty minutes after the engines arrived before a stream was turned on the fire, by which time the buildings were a mass of flames. The fire originated in the building occupied by W. T. Caldwell as a mattress factory, from which it rapidly extended to the large furniture factory and warehouse of Heywood Bro's., C. B. Woodhead's livery stable, and the one-story building occupied by the Los Angeles Pickle and Vinegar Works, of which Lenz & Ahrens are proprietors. It was soon seen that it was useless to attempt to save these buildings, and all the energies of the firemen were directed toward the large brick building used by Heywood Bro's. as a storehouse. This building was filled with a large stock of all kinds of furniture, while in the cellar was a large quantity of oil, varnish, excelsior and other inflamable material, which soon caught fire, the oil barrels exploded, and in a very few minutes the entire building was one roaring, seething furnace, which nothing could subdue until it had burned itself out. At a quarter past 12 o'clock the front wall of the furniture factory fell in, followed in a few minutes by the north wall of the building. The rear wall came down with a crash shortly after, when almost a panic ensued among the people living in the row of frame cottages north of the fire, who at once commenced carrying out their furniture and household goods to a place of safety. At one time it looked as if these houses would catch, but on account of the favorable direction of the wind they were saved, and the fire burned out. The buildings and contents were a total loss. Hardly a brick was left standing, and everything combustible was consumed. Telegraphic communication was interrupted during the progress of the fire, as all the wires pass along in front of the buildings and were broken.

The total loss will foot up between $65,000 and $70,000, with $12,000 to $15,000 insurance as follows: Heywood Bros., $22,000; insurance, $8500 in the Sun and Hamburg-Magdebury, and $3000 in the Prussian National Company. Woodhead's livery stable, loss $10,000; insurance, unknown. W. I. Caldwell, loss about $2000; insurance, unknown. Lenz & Ahrens, pickle works, total loss; insurance, $2500 in the Prussian National Company.

The buildings were owned by Woodhead & Gay, and will be rebuilt at once.

Chief Engineer Strohm did as well with the fire as could reasonably be expected, and prevented its further disastrous spread. The daily attacks of an afternoon sheet, which is run in the interests of a lost cause, appear to him entirely gratuitous, as they are certainly gauzy.

HENRY KEGEL.

Out of the Frying-Pan Into the Fire.

Henry Kegel, of notoriety in the Hall-Kegel feud, gets from one scrape into another with a lightning-like speed that would keep a whole army of police detectives on the jump. Day before yesterday he was on trial before Judge Ross and a jury in the United States Circuit Court, and was only released yesterday morning. He busied himself all day by sampling whisky and beer. Late in the afternoon he came to the conclusion that he was in a fit condition to tackle the twenty miles that lie between this city and his mountain home, back of San Fernando. He did not feel like riding home alone, so he looked up Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Lopez, who live near him. Henry talked German and Spanish at a lively rate during the drive over the first five or six miles of the way, and seemed to be in the best of humor with himself and the world at large, but a sudden change came over him. He quarreled with his sour beer and then lit into his guests, who were riding quietly by his side. Mr. Lopez attempted to pacify the enraged Henry, but the more he talked the hotter Henry got, until he finally checked up his horses and ordered Lopez and his wife out of the wagon. The party was then a few miles this side of Sepulveda and did not care to walk the balance of the way home, so they undertook to argue the matter. Kegel talked in German and his guests banged away in Spanish, and the more they talked the worse the tangle became. Kegel gave a war-whoop and before Lopez knew what was in the wind he was flat on his back in the dust. As soon as Kegel landed his man by the road he grabbed a pistol that rested on the front seat and jumped out of the wagon. Lopez noticed the pistol and made a rush for the enraged German. As they came together the pistol exploded and the bullet grazed Lopez's head. At this stage of the proceedings Mrs. Lopez hopped over to the front seat, and turning the horses' heads for Los Angeles, she drove to this city as rapidly as possible. She went at once to the police station and informed Chief Darcy that a frightful murder had just occurred. She said that when she drove away the two men were struggling to get possession of the pistol, and she was sure her husband had been killed. Detective Botello was detailed to investigate the affair. He jumped into the wagon and drove as fast as possible out of the city. When he reached Highland Park he thought he would look into a saloon for one of the fighters, as he thought the victorious man might have started back to the city. He was rewarded for his trouble, for the first man he set eyes on was Kegel, who was just taking a big drink for the good of his nerves. The officer did not know at that moment whether Lopez had been murdered or not, so he covered Kegel and ordered him to throw up his hands. The fellow made a hard fight, however, and had to be well clubbed before he would give up. He was thrown into the wagon, and the officer was about to get in when Lopez walked up. It seems that he had taken the pistol away from Kegel, and then followed him toward the city. Botello drove home with the whole party, and just as he was passing Tom Goss' house Kegel made a tough attempt to escape. He was about to get away with the officer, who had to look out for both the horses and his prisoner, when Goss stepped out of his yard and offered his assistance. They soon dumped the bad man out at the City Prison, and he was booked for assault to kill. He was seen by a TIMES reporter a few minutes after, and in answer to a question stated that he did not know what he had been arrested for. He said that when he and the Lopez family reached a point about a mile this side of Sepulveda, they threw him out of the wagon, and Lopez jumped out and beat him most brutally. He will have an examination before Justice Austin today.

FELLOW CITIZENS!

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN—This is not intended as a spread-eagle oration or as a sample of our "Queen's English," but rather to remind you that it is growing late in the afternoon of 1887; that only 60 days remain to you for the accumulation of wealth before you must make up your annual balance sheet. Having full confidence in the proposition that all Yankees love the "dollars of their daddies," and feeling absolutely positive that a rich return of these "daddy dollars" awaits all who invest a proportionate sum in the cream of all tracts in the southern part of the city, namely,

—THE—

NADEAU Orange Tract!

We most confidently invite you to do a little business with us. Bear with us while we tell you that the coming new boulevard of the city,

CENTRAL AVENUE,

Will undoubtedly within a short time rival Figueroa street. That it is four miles long, reaching from First street to the Ballona Harbor railroad. That it is eighty feet wide and has a horse
